HOLMESTELLS A TALE

How Pietzel Came by His Death Last September.

IT WAS A CASE OF SUICIDE.

Holmes Disfigured the Face of the Dead Man by an Explosion of Chemicals—He Has Witnesses to Corroborate His Statements—Chappell's Tank Story Partly Verified—Latest Developments.

PHILADELPHIA, July 30.—The Bulletin prints the following: An entirely new statement has just been made by H. H. Holmes, the supposed murderer of the Pietzel children. In it the man of many crimes, gives in detail his version of how Pietzel came by his death last September, and also states his (Holmes') connection with the tragedy. The statement was given to a close friend of Holmes in Philadelphia, who gave it to a Bulletin representative.

Holmes says that on the Saturday night preceding the death of Pietzel the latter came to his house on North Eleventh street, where he was staying with "Mrs. Howard." Pietzel told Holmes a heartrending story of his pecuniary difficulties and of the sickness of his daughter in St. Louis. "I must have money," he said, or words to that effect, "to send my wife to St. Louis."

Holmes remonstrated with Pietzel as to his spendthrift habits, and spoke substantially to him as follows: "Ben, you have been a good friend of mine. I have made lots of money through you, but I can not keep this thing up. Where is that $50 I gave you the other day? If you don't quit drinking you and I will have to separate."

This conversation is said to have been carried on along Eleventh street, the men walking north until Norris street was reached. When they arrived at the corner Pietzel exclaimed:

"I am of no benefit to any one. I will soon get rid of my difficulties. Life has become a nuisance to me."

Holmes then avers that he jokingly remarked to Pietzel: "Well, your body is as good as any other, but I would not advise you to do anything rash."

Holmes accounts for making this remark, by saying he and Pietzel had under consideration the defrauding of the Fidelity Mutual Insurance company.

Holmes says Pietzel then became angry and again avowed that he would commit suicide.

Holmes then explains that Pietzel left him with the intention of going home. Holmes says he gave Pietzel no money that night, but promised to meet him at the Callowhill street house the following morning.

It was about 10 o'clock the following day (Sunday), Holmes goes on to say, that he went to visit Pietzel at the Callowhill street house. When he reached the place no one apparently was about. Holmes sat in the kitchen for almost 20 minutes, waiting for Pietzel to appear. The latter, Holmes supposed, had gone out for breakfast. Time wore on and "Ben" was not to be seen. The conspirator then says that he became anxious about his friend's whereabouts, and began to search the house for Pietzel.

"As I arose to go upstairs," says the criminal, "I noticed a note lying in the counter in the front part of the house. It was addressed to me." Then Holmes explains that he opened the note. It directed him to go up to the second floor and open a closet in which, he would find a large blue bottle containing another letter addressed to him. Holmes followed the directions. He found the note in the bottle as described, and was horrified when he read it. It was from Benjamin Pietzel, and advised Holmes that his (Pietzel's) dead body could be found in the house. The letter pleaded that Holmes look after Pietzel's children and suggested that there would be no difficulty in getting the insurance money from the Fidelity company now that the dead body of Pietzel could be produced in evidence.

Holmes then told his friends of the appearance of the corpse, and said that he sat in the room with the body for over an hour. He was dazed and hardly knew what course to pursue. He finally made up his mind that since Pietzel had taken his life there would be no harm in destroying any evidence of suicide, so that he might be able to get the insurance on Pietzel's life without any difficulty.

Holmes has confessed that he thereupon dragged the dead body to the second floor, laid the corpse on the floor, pried open the mouth of the dead man with a pencil and poured in a quantity of explosive chemicals. He then, he says, placed a lighted match to the man's mouth and the explosion which so horribly disfigured the corpse followed. To give the more forcible impression that Pietzel came to his death by an accidental explosion Holmes stated to his friend that he got a pipe of Pietzel's, filled it with tobacco, lighted it, then blew out the flame, after the tobacco had been partly consumed, and placed the pipe beside the dead man's body.

It was nearly 4 o'clock in the evening before he left the Callowhill street house. He put on a hat of Pietzel's to partially conceal his identity, and placed his own hat, which was of felt, under his coat. The criminal went directly to the Broad street station, so he alleges, and inquired at what hour the first train left for Chicago. Holmes says he does not distinctly remember at what hour the railroad officials told him a Chicago train would leave Philadelphia, but believes it was between 8 and 8:30 o'clock at night. He then went to the house where he was staying and made preparations to leave the city.

He and his wife, Holmes alleges, left for Chicago that night.

It is understood that if the prosecution concludes to indict Holmes for the murder of Pietzel in Philadelphia they will produce a witness who, it is said, heard the conversation between Holmes and Pietzel on that eventful evening when the latter threatened to do away with his life. It has also been learned that the state has another witness who was on the train on which Holmes and his "wife" traveled to Chicago. This witness, it is understood, can testify that Holmes sat in an apparent stupor on his way to the west.

CHAPPELL'S STORY.

One of the Tanks He Told About Has Been Found.

CHICAGO, July 30.—The search of the Holmes building was prosecuted yesterday on the information given to the police by M. S. Chappell, the machinist, who says that he articulated the skeletons of three of the supposed victims of H. H. Holmes. Chappell told the police that Holmes had two vats in the cellar. One, he said, was in the southeast corner and the other in the southwest corner of the rear cellar. They had since been walled up, he said. One of the vats, according to Chappell's statement, was used as a vessel in which the flesh was eaten from the bones by the use of acids. The other was for the purpose of bleaching the bones.

Twelve laborers worked all day digging out the two corners designated by Chappell, and were about to give up the search as unsuccessful when one of the men at work on the southeast corner struck his spade against something which gave forth a metallic sound. The metal object proved to be a huge tank in the shape of a boiler. It was located just outside the south cellar wall, and its top was four feet from the ground's surface. Work for the night was stopped before the tank was fully uncovered, but apparently it is eight feet long and three feet in diameter.

Except for the discovery of the tank the search in the basement was fruitless. Above stairs the search was almost as barren of results as that made in the cellar. A few scraps of letters were found and one minute portion of a registry envelope was picked up by Sergeant Norton. It bore the number of the registered letter and will be investigated. It is expected that the name of the sender and recipient will be obtained.

The police secured, yesterday, a skeleton which they first believed to be that of Mrs. Connor, one of the alleged victims of H. H. Holmes. M. G. Chappell, who claimed to have articulated several skeletons for Holmes, took two detectives to the house of a West Side physician where the complete skeleton was found. Chappell says that he got the bones from Holmes and from the dates and other evidence Inspector Fitzpatrick announced that he believed the skeleton to be that of Mrs. Connor.

After further examination the police decided that the skeleton is probably that of Miss Cigrand, the Indiana girl, instead of that of Mrs. Connor. It had been sold to the Hahnemann medical college by Holmes, the police claim. Yesterday's find, with the trunk discovery of Sunday, makes two of the three skeletons which Chappell claims to have articulated for Holmes, and the police are in hopes of finding the third shortly.

It is probable that all the secret passages and rooms in Holmes' house will soon be revealed, as a brick mason, who claims to have done all the queer work about the place, called at police headquarters yesterday afternoon and offered to tell all he knows. He was promptly taken care of by the officers, and is expected to prove an important witness.

DETECTIVE GEYER'S WORK.

Two More Murders Prevented by the Arrest of Holmes.

INDIANAPOLIS, July 30.—Detective Geyer, who is here searching for the house in which he thinks Holmes murdered Howard Pietzel and disposed of the body, made the startling announcement that he discovered enough here to convince him that the arch murderer had laid his plans to murder his fifth wife, Georgiana Howard, and her mother, Mrs. Yoke of Franklin, in this city as soon as he should get rid of the Pietzel family.

Detective Geyer obtained his clew at the real estate office of John L. Wright who had dealing with Holmes while the latter was starting from one hotel to another with the Pietzel children. At that time Holmes had been given authority by Georgiana Howard to make a deal with their heirs for her property at Franklin and had her mother's consent. Owing to some hitch the deal was dropped temporarily.

Detective Geyer asserts that as soon as Holmes had got the few thousand dollars coming to his wife he would have disposed of both Georgiana and her mother as he did of the Pietzels. Detective Geyer still holds to the belief that Howard Pietzel was murdered in this city, although his body might have been disposed of in Chicago. Thus far he has no clew to any house in this city that Holmes rented. He says all trace of the boy ends in Indianapolis.

COLUMBUS, O., July 30.—As a result of a grudge of long standing, James Leonard, who keeps a saloon and grocery at State and Sandusky streets, on the West Side, shot and killed William Welsh last night. Welsh was at Leonard's saloon, when a little trouble arose and Leonard shot Welsh twice and then struck him over the head with the revolver. The police took Welsh's remains to the morgue and Leonard was taken to the city prison, charged with murder. Mrs. Leonard was mixed up in the affair, it being charged that she and Welsh were too friendly to suit Leonard, who was jealous.

IT'S ALL OVER NOW

Harvey-Horr Debate Brought to an End.

THE LAST DAY'S DISCUSSION.

Feasibility of Independent Action by the United States For the Remonetization of Silver Regardless of the Acts of Other Nations Was the Subject Under Consideration.

CHICAGO, July 30.—The last day of the Horr-Harvey debate opened yesterday afternoon. The day's attack was directed at the question of the feasibility of independent action by the United States for the remonetization of silver and its free an unlimited coinage at a ratio of 16 to 1 with gold, regardless of the acts of other nations. Mr. Harvey arguing for such action, Mr. Horr against it.

The discussion was opened by Mr. Horr who declared it was useless to try to fix the relative value of any two substances by legislation. Suppose congress should try to fix the relative value of a bushel of wheat and a bushel of oats. As soon as one of them had a large crop, up would go the ratio and legislation by the nations of the whole world would not maintain the ratio any more than it would make water run up hill. The law of gravity would stand in the way, it was so in the matter of ratio between silver and gold.

Mr. Harvey quoted estimates as to the consumption of gold for a moment in the arts and otherwise, one for hoarding, to the effect that these uses equalled, if they did not exceed the production, so that the amount of that metal for coinage was at a standstill or decreasing.

Resuming his argument and referring to Mr. Harvey's statement that the remonetization of silver would reduce debts by one-half, Mr. Horr said that by far the largest part of the debts in the United States were less than one year old. The long time debts were those of large corporations. The short time debts were contracted under the existing gold basis and to reduce them one-half would be to repudiate them one-half. Mr. Harvey's proposition would simply result in silver monometallism. It had been thought that it was possible to clip money without injuring anybody. That has been proved fallacious. He declared that cheap money could not be substituted for good money without injuring the mass of the people. The people who would profit by such a change would not be the rich, but the money changers.

Mr. Horr returned to his cable argument, declaring it was a valuable object lesson. It showed that the Rothschilds could corner the gold of the world in their vaults. Who was it that clipped the coins in 1873? Who was it that established a robber standard? Resuming his argument, Mr. Harvey said that the gold advocate feared that debts contracted in gold would be paid in silver and the man who has speculated to pay gold would have to buy it at a premium. This was fallacious. As soon as silver was remonetized no man could speculate for payment in gold; the demand for gold would decrease; at the same time the demand for silver would increase, and soon the differences between the metals would be wiped out; soon the purchaser would be able to get more in gold for what he had to sell than now. He declared that it was not the stamp on the coin which gave it value, but the making of a new use and new demand for it. If at the next general election a bimetallic congress should be elected, the rubicon would be passed the next day; silver would at once begin to appreciate and gold to depreciate and they would be at a parity before the meeting of congress, and as the greenback dollar became equal in value to the gold dollar before the resumption act came into force.

Mr. Horr, resuming, reiterated the statement that size had nothing to do with value. A diamond worth $1,000,000 could be put into a quail's egg. He then continued his enumeration of the classes of people who declared would be ruined by cheapening the measure of value.

Referring to the advance in wages of domestic servants Mr. Harvey said that since the demonetization women had been forced to work for their living because their fathers and brothers were out of work. This had reduced the number of women available for domestic service, and wages for such service had remained firm or advanced. Taking up his argument Mr. Harvey said that under free coinage gold would decline while silver and everything would advance. He claimed that if all the gold and silver in the world were sent to our mints for coinage it would be to the benefit of the United States and the injury of the rest of the world. Money in circulation made business, he said, just as life does not make blood, but blood makes life.

The trouble, Mr. Horr declared, was that with free silver coinage, gold would leave the country and our business would be on a basis different from the rest of the world. He argued that there was enough gold in the world for the transaction of legitimate business and the annual output of the mines of the world was large enough to meet the increase of the world's business. In proof of this he quoted the increasing production of Africa, Russia, India, Australia and the United States and the opening of new and rich mines. Since 1850 the supply of gold in the world had increased from about seven millions of dollars to over twelve billions, with indications of continued rapid increase.

Mr. Harvey said that any one who had occasion to look into the question of reports of the output of mines would not be startled by Mr. Horr's big figures. He then quoted the statistics of India under the silver standard, showing a steady growth till the balance of trade turned in his favor in 1873. He declared that to their use of silver and our comparative disuse of it was what had given such impetus to India, Japan and Mexico. He declared he was in favor of independent action by this country, because it would right a great wrong; because its continuance would injure more; because this nation should be independent of Europe; because we should be free from tribute-paying to Great Britain; because our power is sufficient to compel Europe to come to our standard in order to do business with us. International balances were settled by weight, anyhow. There was no such thing as international money.

Mr. Horr then proceeded to argue in behalf of the single standard form money, saying that stability was its chief merit, and a stable measure could not be maintained with two standards. Why, he asked, take the ratio of 16 to 1, doubling, as claimed, the value of all prosperity. Why not go back to the standard of Rameses II. 4 to 12. The whole theory was fallacious. The coin must be intrinsically worth its face.

Mr. Harvey said that money could not be classed with weights and measures. The bimetalist relied on two metals, and under that standard it was more stable than a single standard. As the pendulum of the clock was made of two metals to counteract each other, so the standard of money should be double, acting each on the other and preventing fluctuations. Free coinage in the United States would establish a parity and then gold would be found here. The man abroad who had not silver would have gold. If the United States would take its stand it would prove itself stronger than Great Britain. France had promised to stand by us, Mexico and South America would be with us; combined they would force Europe to recognize silver.

Mr. Horr said that silver had had its day as the money of final redemption. It would continue, however, to be used as subsidiary money. Gold was the standard of the world and had come to stay.

Mr. Horr closed by thanking Mr. Harvey for the uniformly courteous treatment which he had received from his opponent during the discussion.

Mr. Harvey, rising for his closing address, said the "United States" was the chief producer of silver until 1873; it was the most sacred metal of our coinage; it was the measure of our values. In 1873 it was struck down as Caesar was, by the dagger of an assassin. The gold standard men had set up a standard founded on a crime as a standard for the morals of the nation.

Mr. Harvey then proceeded to denounce the president's foreign and financial policy and declared that the friends of silver were fighting the battle of the people the world over. On their success depended the liberties of the masses. Oppression had driven the liberty-loving into its last stronghold. There was nothing beyond except the islands of the Pacific. He declared that a second declaration of independence in the United States was needed, and proceeded to recount the story of the signing of the declaration of independence in Philadelphia and the ringing of the bell by the old watchman with much dramatic effect.

The answering questions was the final act in the controversy.

STORM IN ST. LOUIS.

One Life Lost and Considerable Damage Done to Property.

ST. LOUIS, July 30.—This city was visited by a terrific thunderstorm yesterday that raged for more than an hour. The rain fell in sheets, flooding the streets and sewers of the West End and two brick houses in course of erection were completely demolished. A number of men were at work on them when the wind and rain came up. They barely escaped with their lives. One of them, George W. Bennett, an employee of the Missouri Roofing company, was thrown violently from his position on the roof of the house and fell to the ground, sustaining serious injury about the head and body. He was removed to the city dispensary.

In falling the houses fell on to the residence of John W. McClain and did considerable damage.

The rain was the hardest on record for two years. For five minutes the water fell at the rate of six inches an hour. In six minutes the government rain gauge showed a fall of .38 of an inch. In the West End it rained .55 of an inch in the same time. It rained steadily for nearly three-quarters of an hour. Just before the breaking of the storm an ugly looking rain cloud, round in shape, hanging very low, passed over the city from the northwest. The storm was entirely local. In different parts of cities telephone and telegraph wires were blown down.

Arthur Labe, the 11-year-old son of Mrs. Mary Labe, 426 Espenshield avenue, came by his death as a result of the wind and rainstorm. He picked up a live wire that had been broken and thrown to the street by the wind. Death was instantaneous.

Over 100 telegraph poles were disabled by the storm. The telephones are all protected by fuses and lightning arresters and the lightning burned out the fuses. It will be a couple of days before they can be gotten into working order. The Western Union and Postal wires fared better than was expected. The railroad wires were down in a few places and worked badly for a time, but the trouble was of minor importance.

PARIS, July 30.—Cardinal Gibbons is expected to return to this city, from Reims.

BIG BATTLE RAGING.

Cubans Attack the Town of Jiguani.

OVER SIX THOUSAND STRONG.

Two Thousand Spanish Troops Sent to Relief of the Besieged Place—The Result of the Battle Not Known—A Complaint Made Against the United States Consular Agent at Gibara.

HAVANA, July 30.—It is asserted here that Antonio Maceo at the head of 6,000 insurgents is attacking the town of Jiguani, near Bayamo, in the province of Santiago de Cuba. General La Chabre, with 2,000 troops, has gone to the relief of Jiguani. No further details are obtainable at present.

A detachment of soldiers from the Colon regiment has had a skirmish with the insurgents near Gibara, the coast town of Holquin, in the province of Santiago de Cuba, with which it is connected by rail. The insurgents left nine killed and 14 wounded on the field. The troops captured one prisoner.

The expedition has been landed under the command of Roloff and Serafin Sanchez.

Complaint Against Consul Beola.

NEW YORK, July 30.—France E. Woodward, a newspaper correspondent, lately returned from Cuba, yesterday sent a formal complaint to the state department against the United States consular agent at Gibara, Jose H. Beola. He charges that Beola holds a commission as captain in the Spanish army, that he hates the government of the United States and has made treasonable utterances against it.

He specifies the refusal of Beola to protect him when he had lost his passport, says that the agent charged that the American newspaper correspondents were in the employ of the revolutionists, and relates that he (Woodward) was obliged to seek protection from Captain Walker, of the British ship Ardanhu.

CIGARETTE HABIT.

It Contributes to the Death of a Telegraph Operator.

BEDFORD, Ind., July 30.—Rock Green, a well known telegraph operator, who lived with his mother, a widow, in this city, was found Sunday in a vacant lot, in a sitting position, almost unconscious from an overdose of morphine. He had been dissipating, and had laid out Saturday night. Green was an habitual cigarette smoker, using great quantities every day, and often getting up in the night to smoke. This is supposed to have been the prime cause of his death, which occurred some hours after his removal home.

When the cigarettes began to pall on his taste he resorted to laudanum and opium for the desired stimulation. The young man was 20 years old. Until a short time ago he was in the employ of the Indiana-Kentucky Bridge company at New Albany. Previous to his death it required the strength of several men to control him. His mother is visiting friends in Arkansas. She will arrive home some time tomorrow, having been summoned by wire.

USED BLOODHOUNDS.

Three Burglars Trained For Five Miles and Then Escaped.

CLAYTON, Ind., July 30.—There has been a good deal of thievery of late. Last Friday night burglars entered the homes of Drs. Martin and Seaton, and Dr. Seaton sent to Seymour for the bloodhounds, intending, if possible, to locate the thieves. The room was left just as it was when they entered, with the window up and the screen pushed aside.

The dogs arrived here about midnight Saturday night and they immediately took up the trail and followed it for five miles to Ams, and there it appeared as if the burglars had taken a train, for the dogs could do no more. Three strange men were seen loitering about the town last Friday night, and it is presumed that they committed the burglary.

MANY THOUSANDS STRIKE.

Tailors Have Trouble Over the Payment of Wages.

NEW YORK, July 30.—A gigantic strike of tailors is on. All the men affected are Hebrews, and Sunday was one of their regular working days. Strikers say that 16,000 workers have responded to the call of the United Brotherhood of Tailors, and that not only this city, but Brooklyn, Newark and Brownsville are affected. The number out in this city is estimated at 9,000.

The workers say that the contractors broke through the terms of the existing agreement by refusing to pay their hands on the day specified, and that they, the better to insure the success of their scheme to force a strike, locked out several hundred of their employees.

Woman Brutally Murdered.

DESHLER, O., July 30.—Mrs. Owen Delaney was brutally murdered here about midnight Sunday night. The unfortunate woman's head was terribly crushed with a coupling pin. Her husband says two unknown men killed the woman. Delaney was drunk when found and was arrested.

Threatened by White Caps.

ELWOOD, Ind., July 30.—James Lane and family, residing northwest of this city, have received a letter warning them to leave the country at once. The notice is signed, "The White Cap Club of Hamilton County." Lane has applied to the authorities for protection, and will brave it out.

SKUNKED THE CAPITALISTS.

Monday's Game Resulted: Maysville 6, Frankfort 0—A Knoxville on the Games at That Point.

The Maysvilles played the Frankfort team Monday at that point and the Capitalists had nine big goose eggs chalked up to their credit at the close of the game. The Maysvilles scored six runs.

Rieman and Tenley were in the points for Maysville; Stagg and Douglass for Frankfort.

The boys struck a winning gait as soon as they got back on Kentucky soil. They play again at Frankfort to-day and it is hoped that Monday's victory will not cause them to become too confident. Over-confidence has lost many a game.

The team will reach home to-night or to-morrow morning. On Thursday, Percival's club, of Covington, will be here for two games.

An ex-Maysvillian living at Knoxville writes an interesting letter concerning the recent games at that point and the rather poor showing made by the Kentucky team. He says that the trouble was not with the Maysville boys. They are better players than the Knoxville in all points except batting. The Knoxville batters bat losing ball in on "regulation grounds." All their winning runs are made on balls that are long flies and that could easily be caught in the field, if it was large enough to give the fielders a chance—beautiful long flies that would just delight Cox if it wasn't for that left field fence. But the fence is there, and the balls were just high enough to go over it, and the fielder hadn't a chance to pull 'em down. The ex-Maysvillian adds: "Put the two clubs on neutral grounds and Maysville will scalp the Indians to their hearts' content. The Maysvilles beyond a doubt are better players, but were handicapped on these Southern grounds. Their outfield and infield work will win for them on regulation grounds."

The writer of the letter referred to above is anxious to have a series of games played by the two clubs on the league park either at Cincinnati or Louisville.

A Strange Story From Tollesboro.

A special from Vanceburg says: "Miss Maggie Vaughn, from near Tollesboro, this county, came into the city Saturday morning and consulted with the County Attorney with a view of prosecuting a man named Charles Pollard, who lives near Burtonville, whom she claims, in conjunction with two women, drugged her and made her swallow pounded glass. "While in the stupor she says they forced a drink down her throat which contained bits of broken glass. She claimed that, after being in most horrible pain for several weeks, small particles of glass worked out of her back and sides.

"From a robust, healthy young woman she is a helpless invalid, with hair almost white, contrasting strangely with her youthful face. She will sue for damages."

Jollying Colonel Bob Wuest.

Cincinnati Enquirer: "The article in The Enquirer detailing the heroism of Colonel Bob Wuest, the popular Cincinnati traveling salesman, in saving a pretty young lady from drowning at Atlantic City, has brought him a bushel of letters from his many friends. They congratulate him on his gallantry, and also express admiration for his manhood. A peculiar feature of the letters is that about twenty of them are identically the same, although written by different persons. They were all sent from Maysville, Ky., and were evidently intended as a joke. Of course, Bob was not a little surprised at discovering nearly all the letters he opened to be exactly the same."

The Legislative Fight in Nicholas.

The race for Representative from the counties of Nicholas and Robertson has been waxing warmer from day to day until the climax was reached Saturday when two of the Democratic candidates withdrew and an entirely new man was announced.

The new man is Judge A. J. Bonta, of Nicholas, a man who has served two terms as County Judge, and is highly respected. He is a McCrory candidate, and on account of his great popularity it is thought that he can get many votes that would otherwise have gone to the Blackburn candidate.

It was also decided to institute suit against the Mason-Foard Company and the J. W. Gaines Company for alleged arrearages in connection with prison contracts.

IN THIRTY DAYS,

The Pulley Factory is to Be Completed. Orders on Hand For $6,000 Worth of Pulleys.

Work on the pulley factory in the East End is progressing satisfactorily, and it will be pushed to completion. The contract requires it to be finished in thirty days.

The company has orders on hand for about $6,000 worth of pulleys, which they will be unable to fill until the factory is completed. And orders are being received almost daily. The company is making no special effort to sell any goods now, and the fact that these orders are coming in is the best evidence that the Sprinkle split pulley is a good thing.

Mr. C. C. Hopper, General Manager of the company, will visit Cincinnati this week, in company with Mr. Sprinkle, to secure the boiler and engine for the new factory.

COMMERCIAL Gazette: "The C. and O. at Maysville is making preparations to improve its property on quite an extensive scale. About 1,200 yards of iron viaduct will be erected in front of the city, and about 1,000 yards of stone masonry will be built under the river bank outside of the tracks. The work of removing the light rails between Cincinnati and Huntington will next occupy the attention of the company."

Are you taking SIMMONS LIVER REGULATOR, the "KING OF LIVER MEDICINES?" That is what our readers want, and nothing but that. It is the same old friend to which the old folks clung their faith and were never disappointed. But another good recommendation for it is, that it is BETTER THAN PILLS, never gripes, never weakens, but works in such an easy and natural way, just like nature itself, that relief comes quick and sure, and one feels new all over. It never fails. Everybody needs take a liver remedy, and everyone should take only Simmons Liver Regulator. Be sure you get it. The Red Z is on the wrapper. J. H. Zelin & Co., Philadelphia.

St. PAUL'S Methodist Episcopal Church, colored, of Augusta, was dedicated Sunday by Rev. Swadener, of Cincinnati. The cost of the lot and structure was nearly $4000, all of which was secured. The colored people now have one of the neatest churches in Augusta.

Rev. J. J. DICKEY, who has done so much in the last few years for the material and moral advancement of Jackson, Breathitt County, has sold the Jackson Hustler to a company of business men of Jackson, who will have the paper run on the same line that it has heretofore followed. Mr. Dickey says his purpose in parting with the Hustler and changing his location is to give his whole time to the establishment of a school at London, Ky., under the auspices of the Woman's Parsonage and Home Mission Society of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, for which $20,000 for buildings and grounds has already been secured and an endowment of $20,000 pledged by the society, but not yet raised. Mr. Dickey was pastor of Washington and Old Stone Circuit, this county, some years ago.

LOUISVILLE TOBACCO MARKET.

Satisfactory Prices For All Grades
With High Color the Past Week.

Glover & Durrett, of Louisville Tobacco Warehouse, furnishes the following report:

Sales on our market for the week just closed amount to 3,680 hogsheds with receipts for the same period 3,087 hogsheds. Sales on our market since January 1 amount to 117,321 hogsheds.
Sales of the crop of 1894 on our market to this date amount to 117,433 hogsheds.

Our market for burley tobacco this week has developed no especial changes. All grades of burley with high color have been taken at satisfactory prices to sellers, and the market has shown somewhat more strength on this type.
Sales have also been rather more satisfactory for the better grades of red leaf; otherwise the market remains about as it has been for three weeks past. The reports which reach us from the country are to the effect that in many localities the rains have been excessive and considerable damage has been done to the growing crop.

The following quotations fairly represent our market for burley tobacco, 1894 crop:

AT RUGGLES.

Sunday's Services at These Lovely Grounds—Great Good Accomplished by This Meeting.

RUGGLES CAMP GROUNDS, July 28th, 1895.
The meeting of Saturday night was full of warmth and much feeling was manifested. Sister Cartwright, who had charge of the service, made many earnest appeals to the people before they would move, but one young man took courage and came forward and was converted.

We had quite a shower of rain just as the meeting closed, but this morning broke clear, the beautiful sun shining all day. Soon after daybreak, the people began to pour in from the east, the west, from the north and south.

At 10:30 Rev. S. O. Royal opened the service, and preached from 2nd Samuel XIV, 14. It was a soul-stirring sermon, to which the people listened gladly, and came away feeling much the better for having listened to it at the close.
Miss Cartwright gave an invitation to those who wished to change their course and lead a better life. Some four or five came forward and I believe were converted.

"The people one and all express their delight at these lovely grounds and the manner they are being beautified from year to year, and so many express a determination, sooner or later, to build themselves cottages so that they can come and stay the meeting through, which is the only way to enjoy the services and get the benefits of it all around. There is no question but that it has had a wonderful influence for good to the whole country surrounding us here.

Rev. Royal will preach again to-night, and Miss Cartwright will be at all the services and preach from time to time, and those who have never heard her will do themselves good by coming to listen to her, as well as to Miss Phoebe Powell, who is with her.

A great many people came up from Maysville this morning, but not near as many as we look for next Sunday, and the same can be said of Flemingsburg.

BIG PROFITS Small Investments

Returning prosperity will make many rich, but nowhere can they make so much within a short time as by successful speculation in Grain, Provisions and Stock.

$10.00 Systematic Plan of Speculation

FOR EACH DOLLAR INVESTED can be made by our..... originated by us. All successful speculators operate on a regular system.
It is a well-known fact that there are thousands of men in all parts of the United States who, by systematic trading through Chicago brokers, make large amounts every year, ranging from a few thousand dollars for the man who invests a hundred or two hundred dollars up to $50,000 to $100,000 or more by those who invest a few thousand.
It is also a fact that those who make the largest profits from comparatively small investments on this plan are persons who live away from Chicago and invest through brokers who thoroughly understand systematic trading.
Our plan does not risk the whole amount invested on any trade, but covers both sides, so that whether the market rises or falls it brings a steady profit that piles up enormously in a short time.
WRITE FOR CONVINCING PROOFS, also our Manual on successful speculation and our Daily Market Report, full of money-making pointers. ALL FREE. Our manual explains margin trading fully. Highest references in regard to our standing and success.
